About MetKnow

There are dozens of social networks in use that connect friends, classmates, coworkers, and associates. But those networks assume that one crucial step has already taken place – that users know the names of the people they're connecting with. MetKnow is designed to fill this gap and let people know each other in an easy gaming way.

CHALLENGE

This time, the startup company asked us to help them develop their brand new application. There are several parts of the system – landing page, users' area, admin panel and an API for the mobile application. Everything should work with one code- and database. Of course, both web part and the mobile app must have a clean and modern design.

SOLUTIONS

Our designer created a modern and responsive interface. For back-end, we chose PHP and popular Laravel framework. To reduce the time for developing web and mobile apps, we used the same API for both, with client-side written on Angular2.

RESULTS

Thanks to the unity and professionalism of our team, all tasks were performed in a high-quality, on time, and the customer was completely satisfied with the services that we provided.
